

What is NAWN?

The New Albany Women's Network (NAWN) was established in 1998 in an effort to bring women together throughout New Albany. The founding members created the network to share information and resources, build friendships and help create a strong community.

What Does NAWN Do?

NAWN provides a way for women who live, work or have an interest in New Albany to connect and give back to the community we call home. We do this through:

Social & Special Events

- Member breakfasts and socials
- Couples Events and Progressive Dinners
- Book Clubs and Playgroups

Charitable Projects

- Neighborhood Outreach, meals for neighbors
- Holiday adopt a child/group
- Smaller charitable projects benefiting local organizations in need

Fundraising Events

- Annual Fashion Show & Charity Luncheon
- "An Evening in New Albany"

Community Volunteering

- Various New Albany events
- The Jeanne B. McCoy Community Center for the Arts

Who are NAWN's Members?

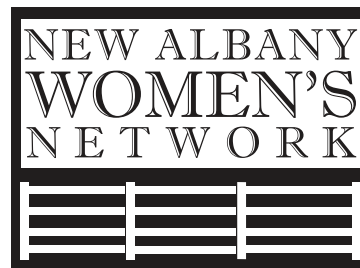

NAWN members come from every part of New Albany and range in age, life experience and occupation. We have come to be known as a caring group of women who extend our hands in friendship and help in times of need.

What is my commitment to NAWN?

There are no mandatory meetings to attend or committees you must join. You decide what activities or events fit into your schedule or lifestyle. Participation is encouraged, not required.

Interested in joining NAWN?

Since its inception, NAWN has grown from its founding group of 10 members to over 250 strong. Our members are a diverse group of women, working together toward a similar goal – to create a strong community. Whether you are moving here from across town, across the country or have lived in New Albany your whole life, we invite you to join the New Albany Women's Network.
